

FRENCH NOW IN CONTROL OF SITUATION

REPORT THAT CONDITIONS IN NORTHEAST ARE SATISFACTORY FOR DEFENSE.

PLAN DRIVE FROM EAST

Germans Said to be Planning to Assault French Positions on Meuse Heights, Which Are Being Reinforced.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Paris, March 1 (Delayed).—That the situation around Verdun is now well in hand and considered quite satisfactory from the French point of view, is the statement by military experts. The French operations southeast of Verdun is interpreted by the observers as preliminary to an attempt to assault the French positions on the Meuse heights to two principal gaps through the woods which are protected by Fort Tannenberg, east by northeast of Verdun and southeast of Fort Douaumont and by Fort Rozel, to the southeast of the fort.

Sapper Describes Battle. "We were in a front line trench on the slope of Cote du Poivre," said a wounded sapper who has returned to a hospital. "The captain sent me forward to a small shelter in the open, where the electric contact had been placed, which led to a mine in a field. I walked along a narrow tunnel without mishap."

"Through a slit I looked out on the battlefield, as through the opening in a theatre curtain. I saw the Germans in long lines, and they were making fresh trenches and using shell craters. Touches Off Mine. "My heart beat madly. They were over the mine, at last. I touched the button. An infernal fountain seemed to shoot up in the midst of the mass of men in grey, with a majestic white cloud of smoke. I saw men go up bodily as if from the crater of a volcano."

The attack was stopped. I crawled back into the trench. I had barely emerged from the tunnel when I saw a burning sensation in my shoulder and faintness. When I recovered consciousness, I found myself in an ambulance."

German Account of Attack. Berlin, March 1.—Dispatches to the Lokal Anzeiger, dealing with the recent fighting on the Verdun front, in the Western region state that, when the Germans occupied the heights of seven kilometers south of Etain, several cannon of the heaviest calibre were captured, together with other guns.

The German advance continued westward, the correspondent recounts, until at several places the foot of Cote de la Marne was reached. He declares the French have been forced out of the trench and a half kilometer west of Marbacheville. They were able to maintain themselves there until February 28, but then were compelled to withdraw under German pressure.

All the correspondents agreed that the territory over which the Germans advanced was exceptionally difficult for attacks.

The Germans, who stormed Hill No. 24 under a rain of shells, and through a sort of entanglements, the dispatches add, were forced to maintain themselves without food during two days and nights against incessant attacks, as the French continued to make the bringing up of supplies impossible. According to the correspondent, French troops who were placed in the same circumstances, survived. All the correspondents insist upon the smallness of the German casualties.

NO ALCOHOL DRINKS FOR GERMANY, ORDER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Berlin, March 1.—Owing to the great demand for alcohol for technical purposes, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German Imperial minister, has issued an order prohibiting temporarily the use of raw alcohol or drinking purposes.

RAILROAD ABLE TO RUN AFTER MONTH'S DELAY OWING TO SNOWSLIDE

Spokane, Wash., March 1.—Traffic on the Northern Pacific branch line between Missoula, Montana, and Wallace, Idaho, was resumed today for the first time in a month, according to railroad officials here, after interruption of traffic was due to snow slides.

War at a Glance

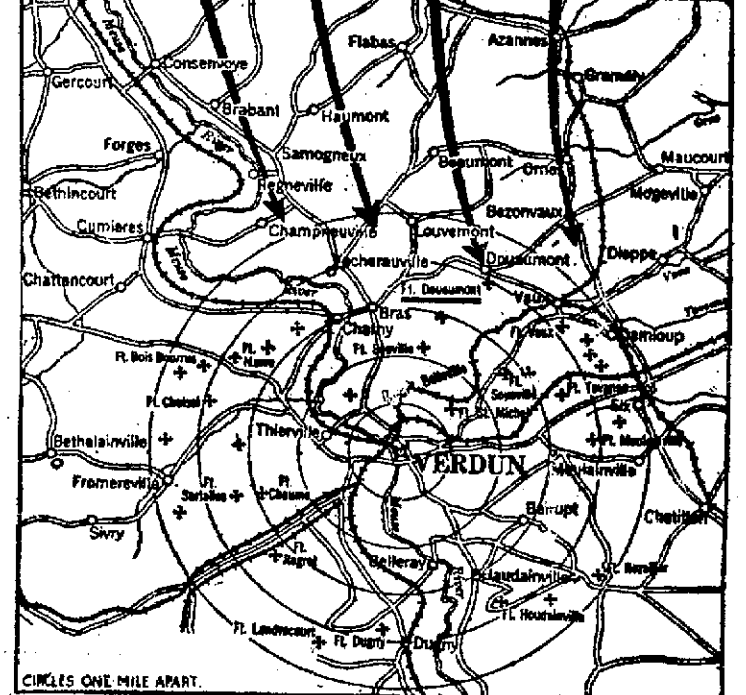

The German drive on Verdun has been halted, according to the Paris official statement, which declares the situation satisfactory. The Berlin statement does not mention Verdun. Germany opened her submarine campaign today. The British ship Thornaby has been sunk and all her crew killed or drowned.

Verdun's daily war expense is $1,000,000. Her 1915 expense was $3,000,000. Her 1916 expense is expected to reach $11,000,000. It is expected to reach $11,000,000. It is expected to reach $11,000,000.

Germany has sent an ultimatum to Portugal demanding restoration within forty-eight hours of German ships detained recently by that country.

A resolution of confidence in President Wilson's armed ship policy has been drafted by house leaders for presentation in congress.

VERDUN, "GATEWAY TO PARIS," ONE OF FRANCE'S FOUR EASTERN BULWARKS

Verdun is one of the four great fortresses intended to protect France against attack from the east. It lies directly opposite the German entrenched camp of Metz, and the frontier of German Lorraine. There is direct railway and highway communication with Paris, 150 miles to the west, and the fortress has been known as the "Gateway to Paris."

POLITICIANS HAVE PLANS MAPPED OUT

COMING SPRING CAMPAIGN WILL BE MOST STRENUOUS.

Canvass of Voters Throughout State Has Begun—Criticism of Administration Continues by Progressives.

Madison, Wis., March 1.—A review of the last week from a political standpoint must, of course, include a mention of the La Follette convention, but it is surprising how the ripples caused by that gathering have faded. The few radicals left in the state came to Madison, they made set speeches, the convention was carried out as it had been planned and the convention adjourned without doing anything which counted in the political battle to be fought out in this state this year.

Contrary to reports from the radical camp, it was not a harmony gathering. No representatives of the McGovern party were heard of the absence of W. Sanborn of Ashland was noticeable. It was a Bossard meeting, and its only effect was to widen the breach between the senior senator and the former governor.

The significant feature of the week was the meeting addressed by Gov. Philipp at Beaver Dam, where 1,200 heard him and hundreds were not able to get into the hall. The governor finds large crowds wherever he talks, and his audiences remain to hear his last word.

Attacks upon the governor by radicals do not seem to have the desired effect. Take, for instance, the attacks being made upon him for his appointment of M. B. Rosenberry to the supreme court. The governor's friends find large crowds wherever he talks, and his audiences remain to hear his last word.

The recent letter of Henry Johnson to the Madison State Journal, which the paper after the editor had asked Johnson to prepare it, has opened many eyes in the state. It answers many doubts raised by the recent La Follette speech as to the condition of the state treasury, which is in better condition than it has been for years.

Meanwhile the system of accounting which has been a part of the Republican administration shows that the state departments are saving money each month. Checking up departments seems to have a good effect, and the heads of departments are taking a noticeable pride in good showings on their balance sheets. All of which means something to the taxpayers.

All reports from the state indicate that Republicans in general are rallying to the voluntary enlistment in the convention delegate ticket. There seems to be a determination that Wisconsin shall take her place among the states which are to choose the next republican candidate for president.

HEAVY ENLISTMENT FOR BRITISH TODAY

Single Men Respond to Call on Last Day of Free Recruiting in Vast Number.

London, March 1.—Today the last day for the voluntary enlistment in the British army of single men, showed a steady flow of recruits at the recruiting depots, but no rush to enroll at the last moment such as had been expected.

It was clearly apparent that there was a considerable number of men still outstanding, who would come under the compulsory tomorrow.

David Lloyd George, however, said that the number of exemptions granted under the tribunal system was causing the government much anxiety.

WILSON DORSE PRESIDENT'S SHIP POLICY

HOUSE LEADERS DRAFT RESOLUTION EXPRESSING CONFIDENCE IN WILSON'S PROGRAM.

CONFER WITH WILSON

Congressional Leaders Consider Situation in Light of Pressure Which is Being Brought to Bear on Chief Executive.

Washington, March 1.—House leaders today drafted for consideration of the house, a measure proposing that congress express its confidence in the president's handling of the armed merchantmen controversy, and recognize that it is not a matter of legislative, but of executive concern.

President Wilson had an engagement to confer with administration leaders in congress on the question of armed merchantmen. He was prepared to urge prompt action on one of the various pending resolutions proposing to warm American cable off armed merchant ships of the European belligerents.

The president's determination thus to throw down the gauntlet to congress on the subject caused distinct surprise at the capital. It was reached following yesterday's cabinet meeting. The president decided he could not stand with German submarine negotiations while congress in congress weakens his position.

The president's wishes were made known in a letter to Representative Charles McNamara, chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, which he brought to a vote in the house. He intends to ask for similar action in the senate.

In his communication the president called attention to the fact that the report that congress was divided over the question of the government for the remainder of the month said this was due to the monster's getting mixed up with the extra day in the month. Small flakes of snow, but driven by a strong wind from the northeast, began falling during the middle morning, and at one o'clock the flakes were almost the size of snowballs and falling with great density.

The early morning weather prophets were conspicuous by their absence at noon. Similar to the ground fog they had back and forth during the day, they had absolutely nothing to say relative to the quick change in atmospheric conditions.

Today's weather report predicts more snow for tonight. Thursday, it relates, will be clear in the eastern and southern sections of Wisconsin. The report is received daily at the Janesville federal building, by telegrams from Milwaukee. It is then printed on cards and distributed throughout the city and county. This is the report which the Gazette uses daily.

DR. ANGELL'S DEATH EXPECTED SHORTLY

Doctors Say That President Emeritus of Michigan University Can Live But Several Days.

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 1.—The condition of Dr. James B. Angell, aged president emeritus of the University of Michigan, who has been ill for several weeks, became critical today. His physicians announced he may live several days longer, but they practically have abandoned hope of his recovery. The doctor has been in frail health for a year, but recently suffered a general breakdown.

NAVY COLLEGE HEAD URGES LARGER NAVY

President Knight of Navy College Urges Larger Navy Equal to That of Great Britain.

Washington, March 1.—The United States is maintaining more policies irritating to other countries than any other nation in the world, according to the naval college head, who is building the strongest navy in the world, defend the Monroe doctrine, and control the Panama canal, maintain an open door in China, and enforce Asiatic trade, he said, the fleet should be equal to or greater than Great Britain's.

PHILIPPINE MEASURE REPORTED FAVORABLY

Bill Including Clarke Amendment Providing for Independence Reported to House Committee.

Washington, March 1.—The Philippine bill, including the Clarke amendment as passed by the senate providing for independence of the islands, was reported to the house today by the committee on Philippine affairs, eleven to eight.

BURTON WITHDRAWS NAME IN NEBRASKA

Has No Intention of Running in Primary for Presidential Nomination.

Lincoln, Neb., March 1.—Former United States Senator Theodore Burton in a letter to Secretary of State, received today, asks that his name be withdrawn as a candidate for the republican presidential nomination. His request will be granted in his letter Mr. Burton said he had no intention of entering the primary in Nebraska.

MOTORCYCLE THIEF LATEST IN CHICAGO

Chicago, March 1.—The use of a motorcycle enabled a robber to hold up four saloonkeepers and a pedestrian, to shoot one of his victims, and to escape with loot aggregating nearly $1,000, all within the space of a few hours here today.

SPORTSMEN'S FEAST AT Y. M. C. A. TONIGHT WILL BE BIG AFFAIR

County Rod and Gun Club Banquet Arrangements Completed.—Governor and Party Will Be Here.

Governor Emanuel L. Philipp, Lawrence C. Whitte, Prof. Wagner of the University and E. W. Barber of the Wisconsin Conservation Commission were scheduled to arrive in Janesville at five o'clock this afternoon to attend this evening the first social gathering of the Rock County Rod and Gun club.

The governor and his party were taken to the Myers Hotel. Here friends of Mr. Philipp and the others were to enjoy a little social gathering. It was expected at noon today that a large number would be present as the governor has visited the Bowing City on numerous occasions during the past two years and has made many acquaintances in the city.

The banquet will commence at seven o'clock sharp and will be held in the large dining room in the Young Men's Christian Association building.

President F. E. Green of the Rod and Gun club will give the opening address. Judge Charles L. Field will be next on the program. Prof. Wagner of the university will be the principal speaker of the evening. There will also be an address from Governor Philipp and E. W. Barber of the conservation commission.

MARCH LION'S IRE DELAYED FEW HOURS

Slow in Awakening But Conditions at Noon Show Storm King's Advance Guard Has Arrived.

The March lion held the boards for but a few short hours this morning. Old Man Weather fooled the prophets completely and late in the afternoon they were twisting up the old adage, "In like a lion; out like a lamb," as the meaning directly opposite and precisely the reverse to come just previous to that day for annual fools. So many predictions of a continuance of the near-baldy conditions of the past week were heard that many began to think them true.

The lion, however, was slow in getting into action during the first few hours of March, but the wise heads who were offering predictions at noon for the remainder of the month said this was due to the monster's getting mixed up with the extra day in the month. Small flakes of snow, but driven by a strong wind from the northeast, began falling during the middle morning, and at one o'clock the flakes were almost the size of snowballs and falling with great density.

THOMPSON'S FORCES LOSE PRIMARY FIGHT

Six of Nine "Rebel Aldermen" Carry Wards at Chicago Primary on Tuesday.

Chicago, March 1.—Practically complete returns today from yesterday's aldermanic election in which the principal fight was between factions of the rebel party, showed that the rebels carried three wards, while anti-administration forces carried six wards, renominating for seats in the council the men who opposed the policies of Mayor Wm. Hale Thompson. Not more than 275,000 persons voted.

On the democratic side a victory was recorded for the Roger C. Sullivan forces over the Harrison-Dane faction, the former carrying twenty-seven of the thirty-five wards.

The female votes amounted to but 32.3 per cent of the total female registration. The male vote was 38 per cent of the registration.

TITANIC SURVIVOR AWARDED DAMAGES

Woman Who Was Rescued on Ill-Fated Ship and Whose Husband Was Lost Is Awarded Damages.

Racine, March 1.—Mrs. Jennie L. Hanson, wife of Peter Hanson, who lost his life on the Titanic, received today a judgment from the federal court that she had been awarded $11,000 by the New York courts in her suit for damages against the owning steamship company.

Mrs. Hanson, in company with her husband, was a passenger on the Titanic at the time of the disaster. She suffered severely from exposure. Of the total sum, $3,000 was awarded Mrs. Hanson for personal damage.

The action was brought in New York in January, 1913.

WILL NOT ANNOUNCE RESULT OF VOTING

Result of Voting by Four Railroad Brotherhoods on Wage Questions Not to Be Made Public.

Cleveland, March 1.—The result of the vote taken by the four great railroad brotherhoods on question of negotiating with the railways of the United States for an eight hour day, will not be made public today, it was anticipated. The vote will be very viewed and the result announced at Chicago March 8th.

FORT PLANS FOUND ON GERMAN YOUTHS

Papers Discovered on German Prisoners—Soon After Their Arrest in New York.

THREATS ARE MADE AGAINST MUNITIONS PLANT AT ASHLAND

Dupont Powder Mill at Barkadale is Guarded by Searchlights and Detachments at All Times.

Ashland, March 1.—All Ashland is watching the big plant of the Dupont Powder Company at Barkadale with interest. Two thousand and three hundred men are employed there. Warning letters have been received by many employees telling them to stay at home as the plant would be blown up on March 1 or early in March. The warnings were sufficient to alarm residents who say they are disposed to heed it in view of the fate of those who refused to obey the warnings of the Lusitania.

The big searchlights installed at the plant can be seen every night, searching the woods, it being impossible to get within half a mile of the place, without being "picked up" by one of the big lights. The entire plant of 1800 acres, is now brilliantly lighted at night, and searchlights are placed on all sides. The guards have been doubled. Pinkettes and detectives are closely watching all strangers.

Mysterious Lights. Duluth, Minn., March 1.—The mysterious lights in the sky resembling those of an aeroplane and which caused authorities to order an investigation of reports, that an aircraft was appearing each night, were seen again last night, and were reported as being the "mystery plane" burst into flames and fell upon an ore dock, where it was found to be a big toy balloon of peculiar construction. The charred pieces were in possession of a man at the dock today. A practical joker is believed to have been responsible for balloon's appearance.

GRAND TRUNK DEPOT AT MONTREAL BURNS

Fire Department Hints at Bomb Plot in Destruction of Station With Loss of $300,000.

Montreal, March 1.—The Bonaventure station of the Grand Trunk railway was destroyed by fire today at a loss estimated at $300,000. The police declared that a preliminary investigation indicated that the fire was caused by crossed electric wires, but fire department officials said they were desirous to believe the building was destroyed as result of an enemy plot.

OIL SHIP ON FIRE AT ENGLISH PORT

British Vessel Discharging Cargo from Philadelphia Reported in Flames.

Manchester, March 1.—The British steamer Spiraea, 2,300 tons, from Philadelphia, while discharging oil in the harbor here, caught fire last night. The fire is still burning along the full length of the ship.

Much Oil. Philadelphia, March 1.—The Spiraea had on board a million gallons of lubricating oil, valued at $113,000. The cargo was shipped by the Standard Oil company.

FOURTH GERMAN WAR LOAN IS UNLIMITED

Subscriptions Will Be Opened on March Fourth.—To Yield 5.24 Per Cent.

Berlin, March 1.—The fourth German war loan, subscriptions for which will be opened on March 4, will be unlimited in amount, as were the preceding loans. It will yield 5.24 per cent. The first installment will be due April 19, and the fourth and last installment on July 20.

BISHOP WEBB WILL GIVE TALK TONIGHT

Milwaukee Bishop to Give Illustrated Lecture Tonight at the Methodist Church.

Bishop Webb of the Milwaukee Diocese of the Episcopal church has been secured by the Janesville Bible Institute to give an illustrated Cargill Methodist church. The subject of his talk, which will be very interesting, is "A Trip Through the Holy Land," illustrated by lantern slides from photographs which he himself took.

FORT PLANS FOUND ON GERMAN YOUTHS

Papers Discovered on German Prisoners—Soon After Their Arrest in New York.

New York, March 1.—Plans of United States fortifications have been found in the possession of Richard Von Arend and Rudolph Von Kracht, two young Germans arrested here on charge of operating the mails to Switzerland, according to E. W. McDonald, assistant United States district attorney, here today.

SINK VESSEL: NEW U-BOAT CAMPAIGN

ENTIRE CREW OF BRITISH STEAMSHIP THORNABY KILLED WHEN SHIP GOES DOWN.

BIG LINERS NEAR ZONE

Twelve Transatlantic Steamers Are Approaching Ocean Area Which is Being Patrolled by Tonic Submarines.

London, March 1.—The British steamship Thornaby is reported to have been sunk, all members of the crew having been killed or drowned.

The Thornaby was owned in West Hartlepool, England. She was built in 1889 and was 258 feet long. The Thornaby sailed on January 19 from Sunderland, England, for Palermo.

Although the British censorship prevents transmission of details concerning the reported sinking of the Thornaby, the reference to the members of the crew having been killed or drowned indicates she was sunk by a mine or torpedo.

The German and Austrian decrees regarding the sinking of armed merchantmen went into effect at midnight. The Thornaby is the first vessel whose sinking has been reported since the London dispatch does not indicate whether she was armed or whether she was sunk before or after the opening of month.

Twelve Ships Endangered. New York, March 1.—The scheduled opening of the new submarine campaign of the Teutonic powers, which was set for today finds twelve big liners in or near the war zone, in which the Austrian and German undersea boats are operating.

None of these vessels are believed to be armed, unless they have mounted guns at sea.

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

By ALFRED W. McCANN (Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

Chapter 23.

The thyroid gland, dependent upon food minerals for its health, is a poison destroyer. Disaster follows when this gland is deprived of its food.

We shall now consider one more instance of the subtle relationship existing between the food minerals and the health of the body. There are glands in the neck called the thyroids, the importance of which, in the economy of life's processes, was never suspected until Brelsacher, Plum, and Bryce made it clear that the thyroid gland of the human body is really created for a special purpose. Sometimes when the thyroid becomes diseased it attains an abnormal size, swelling out in the form of a great lump above the neck. At other times when even more seriously diseased its enlargement may be almost unnoticeable, except to the touch.

It has been almost conclusively established that in the proper functioning of the thyroid it depends in a little understood manner upon the compounds of food iodine. We have also seen how the food minerals help to build up the body. We have also seen how they help to tear down the tissues. In the processes of assimilation and elimination they are equally important.

In this work of elimination the food mineral iodine and the thyroid gland, which iodine affects profoundly, are actively engaged, thus helping to rid the body of many of its enemies and defending it against the assault of disease.

Let us see how the thyroid gland operates and then we shall understand why food iodine is essential to health. Alexander Bryce has proved that the intestinal decomposition of meat produces poisonous products of putrefaction which are absorbed by the walls of the bowels and which, having thus entered into the system, become powerful irritants. They thus produce an increase in the connective tissues of the organs and blood vessels, setting up what the doctors call hardening of the arteries, senile decay, tumors and cancers.

Metchnikoff long ago suggested that to aid the body in its effort to protect itself against these poisonous products nature has provided poison-destroying organs, among which is the thyroid gland.

Brelsacher has proved that the poisonous products of meat digestion will quickly kill a dog if the thyroid gland is removed, although after its removal the life of the animal can be indefinitely prolonged if it is fed upon bread and milk.

His experiment conclusively established the function of the thyroid as a poison destroyer.

Both Plum and Kishi were brought to the conviction after a series of experiments that the function of the thyroid gland is to neutralize the poisons derived from the putrefaction of albumen in the intestines.

An exclusive diet of eggs causes a condition among children which their parents term "biliousness." This so-called "biliousness" is simply the result of self-poisoning through the imperfect elimination of the protein poison.

In children some glands do not develop until their twelfth, thirteenth or fourteenth year. The thyroid gland does not begin to develop until the third or fourth year of life. Hence the child lacks its assistance in taking care of these poisons and eliminating them from the system.

It is for this reason that beef extracts, which contain alkaloids that are infant or invalid should be permitted to swallow, become under many conditions dangerous food.

People in a feeble state of health, who are put on a beef tea diet, are frequently made worse because of the imperfect functioning of the thyroid and other glands. These alkaloids stimulate and bring about a state of functional excitement. Functional excitement does not mean invigoration.

Neither beef nor beef extract contains the merest trace of iodine, yet it has been established that the thyroid depends for its activity upon the presence of iodine compounds abstracted from food.

It has been further established that animals, during the period when they feed on fresh grass and the seeds of grasses, in accordance with the dictates of the Book of Genesis, have much more active thyroid glands.

The Chicago packers have taken advantage of this phenomenon to manufacture the thyroid extracts advertised in the medical journals.

The investigations of Seidell and Fenger on animals shipped to the Union Stockyards in Chicago, from all parts of the United States led to a surprising discovery. It was shown by these experiments that the percentage of iodine found in the healthy thyroid glands of sheep and hogs was about three times as much between June and November, when the animals were allowed to feed naturally on green pasture, as that found between December and May, when they were fed on many impoverished commercial by-product foods.

It was also curiously noted that the thyroid glands became larger during the months in which the low iodine content was observed, indicating some relationship between the iodine and the size of the glands.

What effect had the removal of the iodine from the food of the 1,500,000 children under ten years of age who have died in the United States during the last four years upon the health of those children prior to their deaths?

Village politics are beginning to warm up and men are being groomed for their friends for the various offices.

Miss Phoebe Bailey of Delavan spent a couple of days last week.

Mrs. O. L. Woodward visited Mrs. W. J. Tubbs at Elkhorn Friday.

Mrs. W. J. Tubbs and family went to Milton Junction last Thursday to help her father, Milo Campbell, celebrate his 84th birthday.

Mr. A. L. Woodstock, Ill., was here Friday on business.

Mrs. F. M. Barnes is confined to her bed by illness.

A. B. Rogers has been very sick for several days, but at this writing he is some better.

The Leap Year dance given by the ladies at Drakes hall was a great success in every particular and was one of the most enjoyable events of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hirsig of Mt. Horeb, Wis., were here Saturday.

Miss Constance Behlin of Janesville visited at the home of her aunt, Mrs. F. E. Bradley, last week.

J. F. Kemmerer returned Saturday from Florida. He reports a splendid time and his looks bear him out as he is well tanned. Mrs. Kemmerer will remain until it warms up here.

F. R. Heimer went to Elkhorn Friday night to attend the lecture of Dr. E. A. Cook the arctic explorer.

Mrs. J. E. Corning has been very sick for a couple of weeks.

Miss Nina Jacobson of Milwaukee spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Iver Jacobson, south of town.

Mrs. Frank Stoney is at the Craig Sanitarium at Rockford. Mr. Stoney spent Friday with her.

Mrs. U. J. Two and son of Winnebago, Ill., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bradley, last week.

Misses Martha and Minnie Klingbeil of Shopshire, visited their brother, R. G. Klingbeil and family Saturday.

The Associated Farmers Co. began shipping stock Monday.

Some of the young men are planning a masquerade dance for the near future.

The firemen are progressing very rapidly with the raising of funds for the purchase of the new automobile chemical fire truck. About $500.00 of the $150.00 necessary has been raised and subscriptions are coming in nicely and its purchase is an assured certainty.

The firemen will give a St. Patrick's dance March 17th at City Hall, proceeds for new fire truck.

W. H. Hughes is considering an offer he has received to become factory superintendent for a Madison concern. If he does accept it, it will necessitate his removal to that city, eventually, but he says he will not move for at least a year. Every one hopes it will not be necessary for Mr. and Mrs. Hughes to leave Clinton as they would be sadly missed by a very large circle of admiring friends, besides Clinton needs Mayor Hughes for several more terms as mayor, he has made an exceptionally good mayor and has a good work to do yet, and he is needed here badly.

Some misunderstanding is had relative to the amount of sewer that can be put in for the price reported by the expert engineer engaged by the village council. Mayor Hughes states that the price given and published is for a sewer on every street that now has water and gas mains on them, making a very complete system, and much better than ever thought of by our people. The vote to bond the village for the required amount should be passed. Electric service is a question of a short time and then we will have an improvement needed.

PORTER

Porter, Feb. 29.—Miss Stella Farrington was a week-end visitor at the Moore home in Stebbinsville.

Miss Nettie Armit was at over Sunday visitor at the home of Frank Boas and family.

Miss Lillie Nalan of Stoughton is visiting at the home of her brother, E. M. Nalan.

Mrs. E. Ford returned home on Sunday after a few days' visit with her mother at Stebbinsville.

T. Condon, who underwent an operation at Mercy hospital in Janesville, is getting along nicely. His many friends hope he will continue to do so. Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Nalan spent a few days this week at the home of Mrs. Nalan's sister, Mrs. Thomas Frusher, at Koshkonong.

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth a Pound of Cure

Many of the diseases with which we are visited are insidious. They give no advance warning. We have no alternative but to keep ourselves in the best possible physical condition, so that we can throw off the unwelcome visitor. That is exactly what a trip to will do. The waters there have all the curative and medicinal properties of the famous European watering places.

West Baden Springs (the Home of Sprudel) is not only a cure for many diseases but a conditioner. A couple of weeks there restores vitality, tones up the nervous organisms, in fact renovates the entire system.

Such an ounce of efficient prevention may be had mixed with perfect relaxation, ideal facilities for official amusement—golf, horse-back riding, walking, etc. It is Spring there now. Nature is garbed in all her glory.

This trip is economical, too. The West Baden Springs Hotel is operated on the American plan. Rates up from $3.00 a Day.

This minimum rate provides a nicely furnished room and splendid meals. The waters are free. West Baden Springs is located in the foothills of the Cumberland Mountains—just a night's ride from Chicago on the

(CHICAGO, INDIANAPOLIS & LOUISVILLE RY.)

Two daily trains from Chicago—8:30 A.M. with observation-luggage car—9:00 P.M. with electric lighted, drawing-room, compartment-observation sleeping cars—from Dearborn Station.

You get more genuine good smokes out of a package of NIGGER HAIR Long Cut—

Because NIGGER HAIR is all pure, clean, good tobacco—it is not full of loose, hard stems that you can't smoke.

Every pipeful of NIGGER HAIR is cool, slow-burning and fragrant—because NIGGER HAIR is cut in those long, curly strands which caused the old-time smokers to give the brand its name.

NIGGER HAIR

Long Cut Tobacco

All the delightful fragrance and richness of mild Burley leaf is put into NIGGER HAIR by ageing and mellowing the tobacco from three to five years.

That's how NIGGER HAIR goes to the right spot, and keeps a man always cheerful and contented.

MARKHAM GIVES LECTURE AT THE TRAINING SCHOOL

Tuesday afternoon L. A. Markham, county Y. M. C. A. secretary, gave a very interesting and instructive lecture on the subject, "Corn Is King." The stereopticon slides were secured from the International Harvester company and they were upon the same subject as the one so entertainingly presented by Professor Holden at the Twilight club some weeks ago. Mr. Markham has used these slides on several occasions in rural community gatherings.

GIRLS ON ROLLERS PUZZLE THIRD WARD; MYSTERY IS CLEARED

Prominent Young Ladies Mystery Residents With Activities on Roller Skates.

The mysterious antics of two well known and prominent third ward young ladies which started Sunday afternoon and which have continued almost without interruption, have been to the wonder and amazement of the residents of this section of the city have at last been unmasked. Since the Sabatini third ward citizens have been confronted with a much more derisive over their actions, as no doubt northern Wisconsin, in the vicinity of Ashland and Superior and with the presence of the mysterious aeroplane which has been seen four times during the past week, hovering over powder plants and the large grain elevators at Superior. But while the matter of the aeroplane, which mysterious pilot still remains for solution, the local matter has now been explained.

Both young ladies are recognized as ardent devotees of outdoor life but why they should whirl around corners and up and down cement sidewalks on roller skates was more than their own families could explain. They offered no explanation when interrogated and with evasive answers continued until this morning to keep their purpose and their questioners in the dark.

Through a clever plot worked out by two boy friends the young ladies were entrapped in a mesh of questions and answers explained that they were attempting to become adept on the rollers so as to experience no trouble Thursday evening when the Lakota club frolics is a combined evening of skating and dancing at the rink.

Now that the information is out, third warders may cease to wonder. Indications are that the Lakotas and friends are going to enjoy a big time tomorrow night. Members of the committee in charge of arrangements, George Sherman, Louis Brown and Owen Skayhem have prepared a program of events which will continue without interruption throughout the evening. The Bower City band of ten pieces will furnish the music. Parker Putnam has the honor in charge. Skating at 7:30 o'clock will open the activities, a grand march being the first number of the program. Dancing will start about 10 o'clock and continue until midnight. The big feature of the evening will be a basketball game between the married and single men of the organization.

This morning, fifty-two Lakotas had significant portion of the present. The party will be a hard times affair and from present indications Old Mother Hubbard would turn aghast in envy were she able to see the costumes will be worn that evening.

MORE DEATHS THAN BIRTHS IN FEBRUARY

Report for the Past Month Filed by Dr. S. B. Buckmaster, Health Officer.

For the first time in many years the deaths during a month exceeded the births in Janesville, for during February there were twenty-two deaths and nineteen births. This fact was noted in the report of Dr. S. B. Buckmaster, city health officer, who filed his report for February with City Clerk J. P. Hammelund to be filed with the city commission at their next meeting.

At the beginning of February there were twenty-two cards up for measles and one case of scarlet fever developed. The cases of disease decreased until about March 1st, when there were four cards up for measles and one for the lone case of scarlet fever. "It is hoped that the parents will be very careful and thus prevent the spread of these dangerous diseases," said Dr. Buckmaster. During February there were seven marriages. Twenty-five burial permits were issued.

The report of the board of education showing an expense of $6,692.14 was also filed this morning. The teachers' pay-roll for the last month amounted to $3,520.52 and for the superintendent, clerk's, treasurer, officer and janitors' pay-roll, $1,046.65.

EIGHT CANDIDATES HAVE FILED PAPERS

Will Vote by Ballot at Primary Election Which Will Be Held on March 21st.

With the filing of nomination papers by Frank Forstner, one of the city councilmen, it is ascertained that there will be eight candidates in the field and today was the last day for the filing of the two papers necessary to become a candidate. There is no indication that there will be a "dark horse" candidate to file his papers at the last moment for there has been no requests for papers to be circulated for a candidate.

The candidates are: Roy M. Cummings, present councilman; William Langdon; William Hyzer; Charles Young; John Sheridan; Thomas S. Nolan; Fred Brown and Frank Forstner. The primary election will take place on March 21st and the voting will be done by ballot, the voters casting one vote for their choice for councilman and one for their choice for mayor.

The two receiving the highest vote will be placed on the final ticket for the election April 4th. Because of the large number of candidates in the primary it was thought better to use the ballots rather than the machines.

Ladies free tonight at the rink.

DIED AT BELOIT LATE LAST NIGHT

Former Janesville Lady, Mrs. John Nicholson, Passed Away at Home in Line City.

The death of Mrs. John H. Nicholson, a former Janesville resident, a sister to Mrs. Frank Palmer, and a sister-in-law to Will McVicar, both of whom died last evening about 10:45 o'clock. The funeral services will be held in Beloit tomorrow, after which the remains will be brought to Janesville at noon and taken direct to the Oak Hill cemetery, where the body will be laid at rest. Mrs. Nicholson was a member of the Janesville chapter of the Order of Eastern Star and ladies of the order here will have charge of the services at the grave.

Mrs. Nicholson is survived by her husband, John H. Nicholson, and two daughters, Mrs. Troy Blood and Mrs. George Martin, both of Beloit, and by her sister, Mrs. Frank Palmer of this city. She was forty-three years of age, being born in Janesville Jan. 5, 1872. All but the last six years of her life had been spent here. Mrs. Nicholson has many friends in Janesville who are shocked to learn of her death.

JANESVILLE BOYS TO ATTEND ANNUAL BOYS' CONFERENCE

Annual Older Boys' Conference for Y. M. C. A. Groups at Beloit Promises to Be Most Successful.

Several boys going to the Janesville high school and members of the local Young Men's Christian Association and Rev. F. H. Brigham of the Methodist church are on the program at the third annual Rock county older boys' conference which will be held at Beloit on Saturday and Sunday of this week. From reports around the county it seems that there will be an unusual large number of boys present at this convention. Those going from the town of Janesville are the city are as follows: Ivan McVicar, Paul Richards, James Hadden, Robert Lamb, John McVicar, John Barless, George McFarland, Ike Hall and several others besides Mr. J. C. A. secretary of the Janesville association and L. A. Markham, Rock county Y. M. C. A. secretary.

Fifteen delegates will be present from Milton, twelve from Milton Junction, twenty or thirty from Edgerton, and twelve from Clinton. Other county "Y" groups, as Fulton, Shopshire and Ashland, probably send a few boys as delegates. All delegates will be entertained in Beloit homes from Saturday until Monday morning, except for Saturday dinner, and the conference will adjourn at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday night.

As a preliminary meeting the leaders and officers of Rock county Y. M. C. A. are holding a sixteenth banquet at the local association. The county committee will also be present. Dr. Brown, who is the chief speaker at the Beloit meetings, will be present and give the opening address.

Following is the program for the Beloit conference:

11:30—Opening session, Y. M. C. A. building.

12:15—Song Service.

Devotional led by Carroll West, Milton Junction.

Address: "Why We Are Here," Edward Hubbard, State County Work Secretary, Milwaukee.

Organization of Conference.

12:30—Registration of delegates.

12:30—Conference Picture.

1:30—Reports from group officers.

Discussions:

"The use of school equipment by Y. M. C. A. Groups," Sylvester L. Hubbard, Edgerton.

"The Making of a Good Meeting," Ivan McVicar, Rock Prairie.

Making an Organized Sabbath School, Gerald Sayre, Milton.

"Why Older Boys Do Not Go to Sabbath School," Paul Keim, Janesville.

"Activities of an Organized Class and What It May Accomplish," F. H. Brigham, Janesville.

3:15—A basketball tournament has been arranged for all of those groups which bring teams and uniforms, but each group that is to bring a team must notify the county secretary by March 2.

Saturday Evening.

6:30—Banquet, Judge C. D. Rosa, Westminster, to the Conference, Laurence Warner.

Response to Welcome, Lyle Edgerton, Clinton.

Address, Howard Hubbell, New York City.

Sunday Morning.

9:15—Devotional, led by Don Brown, Beloit.

(Delegates are expected to attend church with their hosts and are invited to attend the various Sunday schools of the city.)

Sunday Afternoon.

3:00—Boys' and Young Men's Meeting, Presbyterian church.

Song Service.

Address, John Brown.

Sunday Evening.

6:45—Farewell Service, Y. M. C. A. building.

Report of Resolution Committee.

ROCKFORD WILL NOT PLAY HERE SATURDAY

For the fourth time, Co. K. of Rockford backed out in their game with the Lakota Cardinals as they will not play here Saturday. The game was promised in their place the Rice Lake team of northern Wisconsin will play. It was learned that George Fogarty and George, the two best players on Co. K. were going to play at Fond du Lac against Co. K. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and as the Co. K. team would be lost without them, the game was postponed for another week.

This will prove a disappointment to the basketball fans who anticipated seeing the best game of the year when the Lakotas and Rockford got into action. The Rice Lake team is touring the southern part of the state, and are rated as a crack aggregation, as they have defeated every team they have played in this section.

LADIES FREE TONIGHT AT THE RINK.

LAND GRANTS ARRANGED FOR AUSTRALIAN SOLDIERS

Sidney, N. S. W. via London, March 1st.—The South Wales war government has approved a comprehensive scheme for settling returned soldiers on land. Steps have already been taken to survey suitable crown land and proposals are being made to make advances to each settler up to 500 pounds, for improvements and the purchase of stock and farming implements.

A number of friends and relatives pleasantly surprised Mrs. E. Neumeier at her home on Cherry street last evening, the occasion of her birthday. The evening was spent in music and dancing and at a late hour the guests departed, wishing Mrs. Neumeier many, many happy birthdays.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Mary C. Otis.

In the death of Mrs. Mary C. Otis this community has lost one of its rarest souls. To know her was to love her, for she brought sunshine and good cheer to everyone. Her warm hearted spirit was always the same. She was a beautiful Christian character, always preferring to minister rather than be ministered unto. Her chief purpose in life seemed to be that of making others happy and content. Her home was like her heart, open to everyone, always warm and content. Her very presence was a benediction.

MRS. MARY OTIS.

Her life is not ended, for her Christ-like spirit will live on forever in the lives of those whose privilege it was to know her.

Mrs. Otis died last Friday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Kakee, Ill. At the time of her death she was one of the oldest residents of Rock county and was the oldest living member of the First Congregational church of Janesville.

Mary Cargill was born in Setauket, Long Island, May 31, 1831. She was the daughter of John and Elvina Cargill. Her father, John, died Nov. 12, 1849, and came west in 1855, and moved on a farm in the town of Harmony. In 1864 they came to the town of Rock, which has been their home ever since. She is survived by two great grandchildren, eight grandchildren and the following children, Mrs. J. C. Burr, Lake Geneva, Wis.; Geo. S. Otis, Afton, Wis.; Mrs. L. G. Otis, Janesville, Wis.; Mrs. W. R. Kilmer, who lives on the old home farm; F. H. Otis, Griffin, Saskatchewan, Canada; Mrs. W. C. Schneider, Kankakee, Ill. One child, Charles died in his infancy. Her husband died Dec. 22, 1901.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Otis have arrived for the funeral. Mr. and Mrs. Carl and Mrs. Eddy, who were in Los Angeles, arrived today. The funeral will be held from her late home on the old Frances Willard farm Thursday at one-thirty o'clock. Her pastor, Rev. C. E. Ewing, of the First Congregational church will conduct the service, and will be assisted by Rev. Joseph C. Hazen of the First Baptist church.

Mrs. Helen Palmer.

Carl A. Palmer, 109 North Terrace street, has received word of the death of his aunt, Mrs. Helen Palmer, who passed away this morning at her home at Lancaster, Pa. Mrs. Palmer was a resident of Janesville for many years and was the widow of O. Palmer, who died at Stoughton, Wis. in 1899. Since then Mrs. Palmer has resided at Lancaster. Her sister, Mrs. George Rockwell, also a former resident of Janesville, passed away several weeks ago. Mrs. Palmer leaves no children. George J. Davis of this city is a nephew.

The body will be brought to Janesville arriving at three o'clock Friday afternoon. Services will be held at Oak Hill chapel.

CHURCH CHOIR GIVES CONCERT LAST NIGHT

Presbyterian Church Choir Pleased Audience at Concert Given at Church.

The chorus choir of the First Presbyterian church, under the direction of Ralph Jenkins and assisted by Mildred Mereness, cellist; Elyse Stanford Greene, bass, and Arthur Schoof, tenor, gave a most excellent and delightful concert at the church last night.

The opening and the closing choir numbers were selected from the "Rose Maiden." The choir evidenced splendid training, their voices were well blended. Miss Jean Prunty sang a song "pleading," by Elgar; "In Arcady by Moonlight," by Banning; and "Kashmir Song," by Woodford-Pinden. Miss Prunty, a graduate from Northwestern University School of Oratoria and Vocal Training, has a quiet, penetrating, well balanced tone which she used to great effect. F. Norris Brett, tenor, sang "Invictus," by Ezzard; "Mad as a Marchion," by Norton, and "A Mood," by Ashford. Mr. Brett has the promise of developing into a splendid oratoria voice. His tone was full, round and pleasing. His enunciation was clear. Miss Jean Prunty sang "Yesterday and Today," by Sproun, and "Love Is the Wind," by MacFarland, and in her usual quiet manner mastered the hearts of the audience. Miss Powers had a promise of great possibilities in voice development. Her tone is elastic with wide range and a splendid control. Of all the vocalists the members of Miss Margaret McCulloch and Arthur Schoof perhaps were the most delightful on the program. Miss McCulloch was at her best, entering fully into the spirit of the duet theme "Night Hymn at Sea," by Thomas. The voices were well blended. The quiet, penetrating tones blended in perfect harmony. The encore, "Look Down Dear Life," by Fisher, was perhaps the most delightful.

Kidney Diseases Cured

The kidneys act as guardians and eliminators to the blood. They separate the poisonous elements from the blood and eliminate them in the urine. A diminution of their function will result in an abnormal condition of the blood. Uremia, convulsive seizures, vomiting, blindness, paralysis, disturbances of the heart and respiratory function, pain in the back, etc., are due to kidney insufficiency. The healthy kidney removes poisonous substances from the blood. Disturbed kidneys throw poisonous substances into the blood, thus irritating the vital and motor centers.

The Milk and Rest Treatment will cure diseases, including tuberculosis of the kidney.

ful of the two duels by these young people. Miss McCulloch in her solo work, "The Spirit of Spring," by Fletcher, easily captivated the audience, and her encore, "I Hear a Thrush at Night," by Cadman, was a real delight. Miss Mildred Mereness, cellist, of Beloit, who has recently closed the season's contract with the Redpath company, appeared for the last time in open concert. Through her great kindness assisted the choir. Her rendition of "Gavotte," by Lee, and "Berceuse," by Godard, was an exhibition of technique, skill and ability. Miss Mereness was at ease in every movement, whether the rush of the crescendo or the quiet tones she easily entered with the poise that means so much in the interpretation of masterpieces. Elyse Stanford Greene, bass, of Beloit, in his solo "Irradi," had a pleasing tone, full rich voice, and unquestionably will develop into a splendid soloist.

MORRIS MILLER

Jack Dillon and Battling Levinsky have been booked up again. They are slated to step ten rounds in New York March 14.

Here are some pretty speedy comedowns. Howard Cammy is to manage the Redway, Pa. team of the Interstate league this season. George Bell may manage the Warren, Pa. club of the same league. Both were big league stars only a couple of seasons back.

Bill Doyle starts his baseball school at Portsmouth April 1. He promises to place all graduates with professional clubs this season.

Clark Griffith says whenever he tries to tell a ballplayer everyone always thinks there is something the matter with the player.

Spike Piled the Grumbling Laborers With Liquor.

Leaving by the same way they had entered, the quartet took their way to Seagru's camp. Seagru was asleep, and Spike woke him and muttered they had the money. Seagru, somewhat upset by the size of the company of thieves with which he was now tied up, kept his own counsel. He listened to all that Spike had to say, and at once advised sending the three safe-blowers back to the city. This, however, it was decided, after a brief conference, would not do, as Spike needed somebody to help him foment a disturbance next day. In the end, a compromise was effected, by which The Bat was sent to town while Sykes and Dan were kept over night to aid in stirring up Rhinelander's men.

The following day had already been announced in Rhinelander's camp as pay day. When Helen and Lyons arrived at the office in the morning for duty they found Rhinelander waiting to take the money. Lyons, very willing to be rid of his responsibility, opened the safe and unsuspiciously turned over to Rhinelander the package he had placed in it the afternoon before.

When the construction boss reached his camp, the men were lined up outside his tent waiting for their pay. Passing within, Rhinelander cut open the package. To his consternation he found only brown paper instead of currency. Stunned by the revelation and breathless with amazement, he made his way, white-faced, back to the station for an explanation. Rushing into the office he threw the doctored package down before Lyons and Helen. The two paled in turn with excitement and each of the three looked blankly into the faces of the others. Lyons ran to the safe and opened it again—Rhinelander and Helen watching. Nowhere else inside was any money to be found. The currency package, apparently undisturbed, had been taken by the agent in the first instance from precisely where he had left it and seemingly in the same condition in which it had been placed

In the safe. All that confronted the startled trio now was the worthless package of brown paper.

Rhinelander wiped his brow and turned, dejected, from the counter. He had not the heart to wire Oceanside of the calamity. The first thing necessary, in any event, was to make an effort to appease the men and, starting to his camp, he attempted to do this. The men, made uneasy by Rhinelander's sudden disappearance after his promise to pay, were grumbling around Wood, the foreman, who was using his best efforts to quiet them. Rhinelander now reappeared from the station, but empty-handed. He brought with him the rifled package, showed this to Wood and to the men; explained that he had been robbed and told the men they would have to wait.

Those closest in the group that crowded around him had been primed for a disturbance by Spike and his two confederates. They sneered at Rhinelander's statements and told him they wanted their pay. Lyons, hurrying over from the station, reported to Rhinelander that the express company and the chief special agent's office had been notified of the robbery and detectives were on the way. But while Wood and Lyons argued with some of the disaffected, Spike and his companions lured others of them to a hut on the edge of the camp limits, where a sort of blind pig was in operation. Here Spike, spending money freely, plied the grumbling laborers with liquor and advised them to stand on their rights and refuse to work if their money was not at once forthcoming.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

Rign on the heels of a remarkable combination of star features is the general release late this month of De Wolf Hopper in the picture play version of "Don Quixote," by Cervantes. As little Burke is undoubtedly the biggest woman legitimate star shared, so Hopper is the most prominent male player taken from the American stage for film productions. Interest in "Don Quixote" is doubled by the appearance of the big comedian and the first pictorial presentation of the Spanish classic.

The popular William S. Hart is joined with Hopper in the closing February releases. A powerful western play called "Hell's Hinges" is the medium in which this favorite actor is presented. Real spectacle is provided by the burning of an entire town.

MISS KITTY GORDON STILL LOOKS YOUNG
Director Frank Crane has completed the picture "As in a Looking Glass," in which Kitty Gordon makes her film debut. Every one who has seen test runs of the film is enthusiastic over the way Miss Gordon "screens."

She is declared to be an absolute vision of loveliness and to stand the inexorable "close-up" as well as of any girl in her teens.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD STAR IS TEMPERAMENTAL
Little Jane Lee, the five-year-old star who has a prominent part in the million dollar Anne Kellerman picture now being produced at Kingston, Jamaica, under the direction of Herbert Brenon, is as temperamental as any of the Broadway stars who are many years her senior. Jane says: "At times it is just impossible for me to act, and at others I can act with almost no effort at all." She ascribes her varying dispositions, however, to the amount of or lack of trouble she has with her various pets before beginning her day's work.

BENEFIT PICTURE A GREAT SUCCESS

Crowds Pack Apollo Theatre to Aid Mercy Hospital Yesterday.
From every point the benefit picture of the Apollo yesterday to the Mercy Hospital was a great success. Four performances of "The Immigrant" were presented, including a children's matinee, every one of which was crowded.

The Sisters at the hospital were extremely thankful and extended their best and most cordial thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Zanias for their efforts in making it a success. For it was by their gift that the benefit was given, and both gave generously of their time in selling tickets and interesting the friends of the hospital. The Sisters feel that it is an example which should be followed by other hospitals. The picture was filmed in England and Italy and adheres as closely as possible to the story of the novel by Hall Caine and is a brilliant of thrilling scenes photographed against a background of matchless beauty. It goes without saying that the packed houses yesterday thoroughly enjoyed it. It is its beauty that adds the finishing touch to the production. St. Peter's and the Vatican, the narrow streets and the ancient palace of the capital by the Tiber appear frequently, while the ruins of the Coliseum are seen for one of the most effective passages in the play. "The Immigrant" is a ground described in the novel, the photoplay at once has conferred upon it an air of reality, impossible to achieve by any mere evasion or make-shift of the cleverest director. The London scenes are no less convincing. There is Charing Cross station, Trafalgar Square and an unmistakable bit of Soho right in front of the spectator. Time Frederick played the part of Donna Roma in a thoroughly convincing manner and the camera absorbed a pleasing portion of her good looks.

Whitewater News NEWTON LITTLEJOHN DIES AT WHITEWATER

Successful Lumber Dealer at Whitewater for Many Years—Former Member of State Senate.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Whitewater, Feb. 29.—Hon. Newton M. Littlejohn was born in Litchfield, Herkimer county, New York, in July, 1823, and died at his home on Main street Sunday evening, February 27, 1916. While quite young he moved to Hamilton, New York. He was educated at De Lancy Institute, Hampton Springs, and in 1852 he came to Milwaukee where he remained for several years. From there he removed to Chesterfield Court House, Va., and from there returned to Hamilton, New York, in 1856, remaining only a short time in that place. He came to Wisconsin in 1858 and located at Whitewater, where he engaged in the lumber business. In that early day, before the railroad had intersected the country, Whitewater was a nodding trading point for thousands of many miles. Mr. Littlejohn was enabled to build up an extensive business, his annual sales amounting to 3,000,000 feet of lumber.
During the trying years of the war, he was active in procuring the necessary quota of troops for his town and performed the arduous and often unpleasant duties of his office in those trying times in a most satisfactory and creditable manner. He was elected to the state senate from Walworth county in the fall of 1863 on the republican ticket, for the term 1864-65, and was re-elected the following year. During these years, when grave questions were pending, both in state and national matters, Mr. Littlejohn placed himself an able and patriotic legislator. He has held many offices of trust in this city and county. The deceased was well known in Masonic circles throughout the state. He had been grand master of the Grand Lodge of Wisconsin, and was known as the "Grand Old Man of the Grand Lodge." He took the thirty-third degree at Boston about eighteen years ago.
Mr. Littlejohn was married in 1848 to Miss Jane Newton at Hamilton, N. Y., and to this union two children were born, Jessie, Mrs. M. G. Halverston, and Ernest. Mr. Littlejohn was devoted to his family and to the welfare of everyone and of his town. A wonderful will power was his and the man who was so successful in business was a pleasure to him to attend the Masonic lodge and take some part of the ritual and he attended lodge until a few weeks ago. The funeral will be held at the home on Main street at two o'clock on Wednesday, and from the Masonic Temple at 2:30 p. m.

Memorial Service.
A union memorial service was held Sunday evening at the Congregational church. Rev. J. C. Cox, of the 3rd E. church gave the address on the war and our duty as a Christian nation. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: J. C. Cox was elected as president and George Kernis was re-elected secretary and treasurer.
Mrs. W. H. Cox went to Clinton Mass. to spend a few days with her son, Howard Cox and family.
Mrs. A. H. Webb returned last evening from Chicago, where she has been for the past two weeks.

Charles Cook of Milwaukee, visited his mother, Mrs. Mary Cook, yesterday.
John Flagler has purchased the Will Conrad place south of the city and will take possession April 1.
A company of twenty or more were delightfully entertained Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cooper, just north of the city. The occasion was the birthday of Mrs. Cooper's twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. They received several articles in silver and a purse of silver as a reminder of the occasion. The following from out of the city were present: Mr. and Mrs. Gust. Leiseman of Fort Atkinson, Mrs. Esther Rhode and Albert Rhode of Juneau, and Clarence Zimmerman of Milwaukee.

An alarm of fire was sent in yesterday and the big new fire truck made its initial appearance. Some kerosene put in a stove blazed up at the Hunt home on Second street and someone sent in at last night the first alarm sent in in over six months.
Whitewater, March 1.—Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McGinn, daughter, Nellie, and Leo, are in Milwaukee to attend the wedding of their son and brother, John McGinn, to Miss Katherine Kern of Milwaukee. They were married this morning, Father August Leist performing the ceremony.
The body of a man was sent to Chicago this morning and will be buried at Alond, Ill. He was fifty-four years of age and came here on a real deal. He was taken suddenly ill and died Sunday of last week.
The funeral of William Knecht was held yesterday afternoon from the home of Charles Colbert on Janesville street and burial was at Hillside. Mrs. Harry Zelle of Milwaukee, a half sister of the deceased, was here to attend the funeral.
Miss Lilian Wittig of Milwaukee, sent Sunday here with Mrs. Olga Custer.
Harry Leonard of Madison, visited friends here Monday.

E. F. Kundert returned Saturday from a few weeks spent in the south. He visited several places in Texas and other southern states, coming home by way of Washington.
Mrs. Minnie McMillen of San Diego, Cal., is here visiting friends and relatives. She came from New York, where she has been visiting her son's family.

ANIMALS HAVE LITTLE FEAR OF ARTILLERY AFTER SHORT SPACE OF TIME.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, March 1.—Bird life along the battle front appears to have been little disturbed by the continuous thundering of the guns. Birds disappeared from the war zone after the Battle of the Marne, and some naturalists attributed their migration to the din of war. They came back again, however, and little by little accustomed themselves to the noise of explosives and even find an advantage in being close to the conflict where there is ample nourishment around the soldiers' quarters. Doves and wild pigeons are the most abundant, while there are many cuckoos, thrushes, crows, magpies and jays. Starlings are very common, nesting in trees as close as they find them in the trenches. Monsieur Louis Rousseau, a well known ornithologist, has discovered that the war has changed the character of these birds and made them thrifty. He has found their nests in the holes of dead oaks, with a provision of breadcrumbs stored away prudently underneath. Doves fly about between the two lines, paying no attention to the bursting shrapnel; and none of them appear to be afraid of either aeroplanes, observation balloons, or dirigibles.
Buzzards are everywhere along the front and they seem to find particular amusement in circling around the observation balloons.

Monsieur Rousseau finds game very abundant in the section of the front where he is, due partly to the suppression of shooting since the war began, but mostly, he thinks, to the invasion which drove game ahead of it toward the Marne. Deer and stags deal of poaching on the part of the peasants. On the other hand, rabbits are very rare. Wild boars are seen in places they were never known to frequent; a litter of wolves was found in a ditch beside the road near which territorial were digging a trench, and two others were found in an abandoned trench 1,500 yards away from any stream. Foxes, polecats, martins, and weasels have almost entirely disappeared their places taken by rats and mice.

Removing the Cause of Much Sickness

The advantage in taking Foley Cathartic Tablets is that in addition to carrying off the entire congested mass without griping or nausea, they thoroughly cleanse the walls of the intestines and keep them free of all clogging matter.

It is this caking on the walls of the intestines that prevents their normal action and function, and is the direct cause of so much constipation, flatulence and many other ailments.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE!

People Notice It. Drive Them Off With Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Close the blood, the bowels and the liver with Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the surest substitute for calomel—there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does and just as effectively. Their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

One who takes Olive Tablets is ever cured with "a duck brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immense relief result.

Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Lung Trouble Yielded to This Medicine.

If you are suffering with serious lung trouble, it will pay to fully investigate. Eckman's Alternative is a remedy which has caused many recoveries. One follows:

"Gentlemen—In Ave. Phila., Pa. of 1903 I had an attack of Grippe, followed by Pneumonia, and later by Lung Trouble. In the fall of 1904 I had a cough, night sweats, fever and raised quantities of sputum. I took many different medicines, but at one time three in three successive days. Three physicians told me to go to the mountains, but did not cure me. My Alternative was recommended by a friend. After taking a small quantity I had the first quiet night's sleep for weeks. My improvement was marked from the start. I gained strength and weight and appetite. I never had another hemorrhage and my cough gradually lessened until entirely gone. I am perfectly well. A NOVEL

By GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN

Copyright by The Century Co.

He was just leaving the sedate old office building, sandwiched in between modern towers of Babel, when a cab drew up at the curb. The door opened and a girl stepped out. She suddenly stood still. Alan's eyes were drawn to her and found hers fixed on him. He drew a quivering breath. Clem stood before him. She saw his hesitation and a cloud came over the light in her face. Her moist lips trembled. Their hands met.

"Alan!" she said and he answered, "Clem!"

And so they stood, his eyes fixed in hers that were blue and deep. He felt his soul sinking, sinking into those cooling pools. He did not wish even to speak again—ever to think again.

And then Clem laughed. Her eyes wrinkled up. There was a gleam of even teeth. The wind blew her furs about her and lit the color in her cheeks. "How solemn we are after three years!" she cried. "Three years, Alan. Aren't you ashamed?"

Alan felt a sense of sudden insulation as though she had deliberately cut the current that had flowed so strongly between them. "I am going away," he stammered weakly and waved at an approaching four-wheeler, piled high with traveling kit and conveyed by his hurried but never hurried servant.

But Clem stuck to her guns. "Really?" she said with a glance at the loaded cab and with arching eyebrows.

"Alan!" she said, and he answered, "Clem!"

Then her smile burst again. "You can't expect me to be surprised. Can you? We seem to have a habit of meeting when you are on the point of going away. There, you must be in a hurry. Good-by," and she held out a gloved hand.

Alan's spirit was ever ready for war and this he suddenly perceived, was war. He braced himself and smiled too. "Twice hardly amounts to a habit," he drawled. He had never drawled to Clem before but then Clem had never before taken up the social rapier with him. "Besides," he went on, "there's a difference. Last time you ran after me."

Clem's smile trembled, steadied itself and then fought bravely back. "Yes," she said, "yes." And then her eyes wavered and wandered. She dropped her hand. "Good-by," she said, the faintest catch in her voice, and hurried away to seek J. Y.

Alan stood and watched her. He felt a sinking within him. "For a mess of pottage," he muttered, and then his servant touched his arm anxiously and held out his watch, face up. "You'll never make it, Mr. Wayne."

Alan turned on him but not angrily. "Perhaps not. Swiftness, and perhaps

yes. You may go back to the flat. I'll get along all right." And with that he buried himself at the cab. "Double fare if you make the Battery in ten minutes," he shouted to the driver and then settled back in the seat to ponder.

Chapter XIX

At last the rains came to the valley and Fazienda Flores. Gerry spent long hours beside his stinckgate watching for a rise in the river, but it did not come. The torrent of rain was local and he remembered that Lieber had told him that the floods—the great floods—came from hundreds of miles up the river and generally under a brazen sky. Night, black night, had fallen with the rain and he was just turning to seek shelter from the unbroken downpour when a voice raised in song reached his ears. He waited. The voice drew nearer. In a nasal tone, which somehow sounded familiar though it was unknown to him, it was chanting a long string of doggerel ending in an unvarying refrain. Finally Gerry could make out the long-drawn tail-end of the song: "comin' down the draw."

English! American! Cowboy music! The impressions came in rapid succession. Gerry strove to pierce the darkness. He could hear the nearby splash of careful mules, picking their way through puddles with snickling little steps. He felt a shadow in the darkness and could just see above it a blur of yellow. Behind it, more shadows. On an impulse he did not stop to measure, he shouted in English, "Hallo, there!"

The doggerel was choked off in mid-flight. The yellow blur came to a sudden stop and the nasal voice rang out in quick staccato. "Speak again, stranger, and speak quick!"

"It's all right," Gerry laughed back. "Where are you bound for?"

"I'm headed down the draw lookin' for a chalk line where I can dry my feet. What do you know?"

"Can you see the water in the ditch at your right?"

"Yasser. I can. I can see you, too."

"Well," shouted back Gerry, "your eyes beat mine. Follow the ditch until you come to a bridge. I'll meet you there."

Gerry found the little cavalcade waiting for him, six pack-mules, a native driver and, towering above them, a great lanky figure in a yellow oil-skin slicker topped by a broad-brimmed Stetson. Gerry looked over the outfit as carefully as the darkness would allow and then said tentatively, "There's a house down there in the valley."

"Is the?" drawled the stranger spitting deliberately into the ditch. "Well," he volunteered after a further pause, "my name's Jake Kemp. The rest of this outfit is six mules packin' orchids and the greaser packin' the mules."

"That's all right," said Gerry, "I guess we can put you up."

He led the way and the pack-train splashed along after him. The mules were soon relieved of their burdens and turned into the pasture. Bonifacio took the native muleteer away to his quarters and Gerry and the stranger passed through the house to the kitchen.

A patriarchal hospitality came naturally to the inmates of Fazienda Flores. It was a tradition not only on that plantation but throughout a vast hinterland, where life was rude and death sudden, to be gentle to the stranger, to feel him and his beast and to speed him on in the early morning. There was but one rule to the stranger: He must keep his eyes to the front. Jake Kemp had evidently learned the brief code. He ate ravenously, poured down coffee with the recklessness of a man that draws on a limitless power to sleep, and made his few remarks to Gerry and to Gerry alone.

Gerry was feeling a strange elation that he strove in vain to account for. This was an American but beyond that they had nothing in common. New York and Texas are connected only by fiction. Perhaps it was just curiosity. Curiosity invaded him. What was a Texas cowboy doing on the road past Fazienda Flores with a mule-train of orchids? As an opener he declared himself. "My name's Gerry Lansing," he said. "I've settled down here."

"So?" said Kemp, as he drew from his vest pockets the makings of a cigarette. Gerry had seen the yellow papers and the little bags of flaked tobacco. They struck convincingly the note of the West. "Reckon you're 'm the States," drawled Kemp as he accomplished the cigarette.

"Yes," said Gerry and added, with an idea to establishing a link, "like you."

"Reckon you're 'm Noo Yawk," was Kemp's next deliberate contribution to the conversation.

With that, talk lagged. Gerry instinctively avoided the question direct and Kemp vouchsafed nothing more. Not till Gerry came upon him hitching up his loads early next morning did he speak again and then he said with a glint in his eye that was almost a smile, "I guess them's the first orchids that ever traveled to market under a diamond hitch."

Here was an opening but it came too late. Gerry did not try to follow it up. Once more in the saddle Kemp seemed to acquire a sudden new ease of body and mind. He hung by one knee and a stirrup and leaned over toward Gerry. "Stranger," he said, "I'm much obliged to ye. It's a long way 'm the Alamo to Noo Yawk, but the bull country's under one fence."

He waved his hand and was gone after his pack-train, lifting his mule with his goose-necked spurs into a protesting canter. Two weeks after his passing, as evening was settling on Fazienda Flores, the echo of a mule's mindless steps on the bridge made Gerry look up from his work.

"Howdy," said Kemp and paused on that to measure his welcome. He was satisfied and urged his tired mule on towards the house. Gerry walked beside him and learned that the shipment of orchids had just caught the steamer at the coast. Kemp unsaddled his mule and tossed the harness and slicker upon the veranda. As Gerry was closing the gap into the pasture Kemp came up and stood beside him. He cast a knowing eye over the fat stock. "You done a good job for Lieber," he remarked.

Gerry nodded a little sadly. "Yes," he said, "the contract's filled. Lieber's sending for the stock day after tomorrow."

As they sat on the veranda that night smoking endless cigarettes, Kemp turned to his host. "D'ye mind I stay over a day with you? Truth is, I want to he'p drive that stock up to Lieber's. I want to he'p whistle a bunch of steers along once more and smell the dust an' the leakin' udders, an' I shouldn't wonder if I let out a yell or so, corralin' 'em at the other end."

Gerry nodded understandingly. "Why did you leave it?" he ventured and then regretted and murmured, "Never mind."

But Kemp was not offended. "Naw," he said, "I he'ld 'em killed my man—not

AFTER GRIPPE

Vinol Restored Mr. Martin's Strength.

Wapakoneta, Ohio.—"I am a farmer by occupation, and the gripe left me with a bad cough and in a nervous, weak, run-down condition, and I could not seem to get anything to do me any good until I took Vinol which built me up, and my cough and nervousness are all gone, and I can truly say Vinol is all that is claimed for it."—James Martin.

late—nor anything like that. I left it," he went on reminiscently, "because I couldn't help it. I got to dreamin' nights of purple cities."

"Purple what?" exclaimed Gerry.

Kemp took a cigarette from his mouth and almost smiled. "Never did hear of The Purple City, I reckon?"

Gerry shook his head. Kemp drew a well-worn wallet from the capacious inner pocket of his vest and took out a ragged clipping. One could read in the glaring moonlight and Gerry glanced through the printed lines. Then he read them through again.

THE PURPLE CITY.

As I sat munching mangoes, On the purple city's walls, I heard the catfish calling.

To the crawfish in the crawls, I saw the paper sunburst, Sprouting from the painted sun; I saw the sun was sulen, In a tear-drop from his eye.

Of dusty desert sky-road, Ten thousand miles and more, Stretched out before the morning, And the sun sat in the door.

He sweated seas of sunshine, As he started up the sky, And he drowned the purple city, In a tear-drop from his eye.

No more shall purple pansies Look up at purple plinks, Nor purple roses rival, The cheeks of purple minx.

Alas! for purple city, And its purple-peopled halls! Alas! for me and mangoes, On the purple city's walls!

Gerry looked upon his guest with new wonder as he handed back the clipping. Kemp put it away carefully, rolled a fresh cigarette, and blew a thick puff of smoke out into the moonlight. "Can't say it's poetry and I can't say it ain't. All I know is it rapped me. I know that writer feller never munched no mangoes, 'cause mangoes don't munch. I know he never sat on no wall an' heerd catfish callin' 'cause catfish don't call. But he seen it all, stranger. Jest the way he writ it down an' I ben dreamin' purple cities ever since I read his screed."

"Did you start right out to look for them?" asked Gerry gravely.

The correspondent at the front in France was racking his brain to discover how to get past the censor the fact that there had been a battle on the River Somme. Suddenly he slapped his thigh in high glee, and headed his dispatch:

"Sommewhere in France."

It went through, the editor guessed and the correspondent's account of the Battle of the Somme thrilled readers the next morning.

Former Speaker Cannon tells this story of his early days:

"One of my friends was a struggling physician. Neither fame nor fortune had come to either of us, but we were always hopeful. The years had weighed heavily upon my friend, however, for he soon lost his hair, being quite bald.

"One day," greeted him with a beaming countenance and exclaimed, "What do you think, Henry?"

"Then, Joe," he said with the utmost gravity, "I shall buy a hairbrush."

Made Him Hurtle.

"To what do you attribute your success?"

"To the fact," replied the self-made man proudly, "that in my youth I enjoyed all the disadvantages."—St. Louis Republic.

There is a remedy
Sloan's Liniment

Read this unsolicited grateful testimony—

Not long ago my left knee became lame and sore. It pained me many restless nights. So serious did it become that I was forced to consider giving up my work when I chanced to think of Sloan's Liniment. Let me say—less than one bottle fixed me up.

LOOKING BACKWARD 60 YEARS

An Interesting Bit of History Everybody Should Know

One of the interesting places in Lowell, Mass., is the old apothecary shop on Merrimack street, established in 1827. This location is still a drug store, although of course modernized in many departments. The old prescription books, however, have been preserved and form an interesting record covering nearly a century.

Perhaps one of the most interesting books is that of the year 1855. On one of the pages of this book, that dated June 9th, 1855, is written the original prescription for Father John's

Medicine. This prescription was compounded for the Reverend Father John O'Brien at the old drug store on that date, and was so successful in treating Father John's ailment, which was a severe cold and throat trouble, that he recommended the medicine to his friends and parishioners. In going to the drug store and calling for the medicine, they always asked for Father John's Medicine, and in this way the medicine got its name and was advertised.

Father John's Medicine is a safe family remedy for colds, coughs, throat troubles, and as a tonic and body builder, because it does not contain opium, morphine, chloroform, and any other poisonous drugs, or alcohol, but is all pure, wholesome nourishment.

If you have any difficulty in securing Father John's Medicine from your druggist, write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express prepaid.

Marrying for Money

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

Marian Townsend's Bitterness Grows as Her Step-Mother's Extravagance Increases.

"Daddy," exclaimed Marian, flushed and excited, "come up to the den a minute, can't you? I want to tell you something."

Jacob Townsend followed his daughter to the den. Dudley had fixed up over the store. It was the retreat of the town. When they wanted to be by themselves, they came to the home. Marian called it. When her father had dropped into his easy chair, Marian perched on the edge of the sofa and began breathlessly to tell what had brought her to the den.

"When Ortrude and her cousin returned from Kansas a few days ago, they had the machine loaded with boxes and bundles."

"That is too common an occurrence to get excited over, my dear," said Jacob wearily.

"But father, she has spent all this money fixing up that cousin. You surely have enough to do to dress Ortrude without clothing her cousin."

"Oh, surely you are mistaken. She would not think of doing such a thing. I am sure," Jacob smiled reassuringly in Marian's face.

"Indeed she would," insisted the girl. "I heard them talking the other evening. Ortrude was planning for a big party for Adelaide, and the girl said she had nothing suitable to wear. Ortrude told her she would see to that. 'Marian has very simple clothes,' she told her, 'but I want you to make an impression.' They were sitting in the garden under my window and I could not help hearing," added the girl.

"Probably Ortrude has something that she intends to offer for the girl. She may very well have. She has bought enough evening clothes for a city society lady and there is absolutely nothing to wear them in this town," Jacob patted the girl's hand to quiet her.

"No," Marian shook her head confidently. "I heard Ortrude say something about Adelaide's dress and the girl was so pleased and excited. I do not think she has had much in the way of clothes. She is not to blame. I suppose she thinks Ortrude married money."

Jacob sat looking at the opposite wall very intently, but he did not reply.

"I suppose there is nothing you could do about it if she chose to buy the girl an entire wardrobe," said the girl bitterly.

"There is something I should try to do," was the decisive answer.

"What, Daddy?" queried the girl.

"My plans are not entirely made," said Jacob evasively, "but I shall look into the matter at once. I promise you that."

They sat in silence for some minutes, then he rose, saying: "I must go back to work." Marian followed him down the stairs.

"The rich can ride in automobiles," was Marian's bitter reflection. (To be continued.)

Answer—One of the best things in the world for them, and so is swimming.

Household Hints

TWO JEWISH RECIPES.

Purim Cakes.—Cream one cup sugar and half cup butter; add two beaten eggs; pinch of salt; half cup milk; beat until light. Add lemon juice and enough sifted flour with one teaspoon baking powder, to make soft biscuit dough. Put on well-floured baking board, roll half inch thick, cut in triangles, drop in a kettle of rendered butter (butter must be very hot, fry golden brown). Then mix powdered sugar with a little milk, flavor with vanilla and spread on top.

Jewish Pudding.—Soak six matzoth crackers in water; press dry and mix with one tablespoon butter, a pinch of salt, yolks of five eggs, scant cup sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon, half cup raisins, a little grated lemon peel, add beaten whites, pour into buttered pudding dish, bake brown. Serve with lemon sauce.

Spaghetti With Oysters.—Put spaghetti in plenty of salted water and cook twenty minutes. Take out and drain well. Into a buttered baking dish put one layer of spaghetti, then a layer of oysters, dot with bits of butter, season with pepper and salt. Follow this with another layer of spaghetti and seasonings and finish with the spaghetti and lots of grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven about twenty minutes.

Spaghetti With Hamburg.—Twenty cents' worth spaghetti, one can tomatoes, one pound round steak, three-fourths pound cheese (grated), four large onions. Cook spaghetti in boiling salt water twenty to thirty minutes; drain, pour cold water over and drain again. Add meat, onion and onions (which have been cooking in another vessel), pour over the tomatoes (strained), season with salt and one-fourth teaspoon cayenne pepper. Mix well and bake in casserole about one hour.

CUSTARDS.—Custard in Sherbet Glasses.—Make a custard in the usual way, using one quart milk, four eggs, one-half teaspoon vanilla, one-half nutmeg. Fill pan one-half full of hot water, set glasses in, fill about two-thirds full. Bake in oven (not too hot) until set. When cold pile on whipped cream that has been sweetened with confectionery sugar.

Custard Pie (new).—Two eggs well beaten, four rounding (tablespoons) sugar, one (tablespoon) flour (sifted), one pint sweet milk; flavor with nutmeg. Mix well together and bake with one crust in moderate oven.

SANDWICHES.—Tunny Filling.—Buy ten-cent can of tunny fish, some celery and ten-cent bottle of salad dressing. Chop about one-half of bunch of celery, tunny fish and one hard-boiled egg; add salad dressing.

Ham-Pickle Filling.—Buy two cans pickled ham, one-half dozen sweet pickles, and a bottle of salad dressing. Chop pickles fine, then add to pickled ham with enough dressing to make a paste thick enough to spread.

THE TABLE.—Farina Croquettes.—Mix the cold farina and one-half cup of whole chopped meat. Beat one whole egg and one yolk. Add one-half to the mixture and season with celery.

WHY SOME MEN FAIL.—Two of these I especially noticed, one because he was so painstaking, working over the new steps. He didn't look particularly graceful and he kept getting out of time, because he hadn't quite got the hang of them yet, but it was plain that he would give in until he learned to do the new steps as smoothly and gracefully as he had always done the old.

The other man I noticed, because he looked so graceful and seemed to be getting along so nicely. I looked more closely and found out why—he was doing the old steps that he already knew.

It is easy to judge which will ultimately be the better dancer of the new steps.

She Knew She Needed It to Round Her Out.—A working woman I know has recently been moved from one department to another. The new work involves meeting and mixing with people. "Sorry," I asked, "knew she was a very quiet person. 'No,' she said, 'very glad. I always hated to try to mix with people and this will round me out.'

That is a woman who will go far, and for that matter already has.

The desire to keep on doing the things we already know how to do and do reasonably well is part of the normal human instinct to follow the line of least resistance. But alas! the line of least resistance is almost invariably the line of least accomplishment, too. It never leads to the heights. It is those who have the will-power and the wisdom to turn their backs steadily on the line of least resistance who reach the heights of attainment.

MISS HELEN COX, MOVIE ACTRESS

Miss Helen Cox.

Miss Helen Cox, daughter of former Governor Cox, of Ohio, has just made her debut as a movie actress in "Skirts and Cinders," filmed by the Lubin company in Philadelphia. When the cast for the photoplay was almost complete, the director learned that an actress intended for a society belle had been given another important part. He chanced to pick up a newspaper, part of the "props," and saw a picture of Miss Cox, who was visiting in Philadelphia. Her type fit the part; he telephoned to her, and she consented to be "filmed."

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements, Frank Bumgarner, Edward Jers, Floyd Kilmer and George Gardner, are making big plans for the party, which is expected to be fully successful as those given previously by the grocery clerks. A big list of desirable prizes are to be awarded to best characters present.

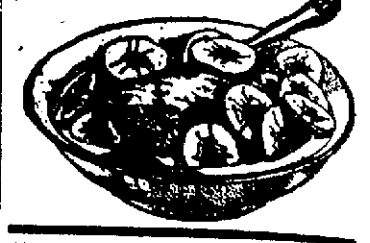

FOUR RAILROAD UNIONS OPEN IMPORTANT MEET IN CHICAGO TODAY.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Chicago, March 1.—One of the most important meetings affecting capital and labor, ever held on the American continent opened here today. The executive committees of the four railroad brotherhoods assembled to verify the referendum vote of 350,000 employees on an eight hour day at ten hours pay and time and a half for overtime. The official result of the vote, which is understood to be overwhelmingly in favor of the demands will not be announced for several days. Present agreements provide for thirty days for negotiations on any matter in dispute, so the crisis in the shorter hours controversy is not expected to be reached for several weeks. The committees, representing firemen, engineers, conductors and trainmen, probably will choose a joint committee to submit men's demands to the railway officials. According to President Warren S. Stone of the engineers and other organization heads, a strike vote has not been taken. To call a strike, another referendum vote would be necessary, both sides say, hinges upon Stone's statement.

The prosperity of the country, both sides say, hinges upon the outcome of the eight hour day controversy.

that this is the time to force a slow down on the proposition. However, all are for peace and are willing to arbitrate but they are not for peace at any price. If railway officials insist on adamant, a strike tying up the transportation system of the entire country, is probable they say. More than twenty billions of capital, 600,000 stockholders, 458 railways with 30,000 miles of track, and 3,000,000 employees are directly involved.

Muffins

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

When muffins are on the breakfast table, nobody cares for meat or eggs and they would be served more often if this matter were not prepared so hurriedly that there is no time to make them. If K. C. the double-raise baking powder is used, the batter may be stirred up the night before, put in the pan ready for baking and nothing to do in the morning but bake them.

One-Egg Muffins

2 cups flour; 2 slightly rounded teaspoons K. C. Baking Powder; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 cup sugar; 1 cup melted butter or oil; 1 egg; 1 cup water or milk.

Sift dry ingredients together three times; add to this the unbeaten egg, melted butter and water or milk. Then beat all together until perfectly smooth. Oil muffin or gem pans and have oven slow until the muffins come to the top of the pan, then increase the heat to bake and brown the muffins. This recipe makes 12 large muffins. Raisins or currants may be added if desired.

Graham Muffins

1 cup graham flour; 1 cup pastry flour; 2 level teaspoons K. C. Baking Powder; 1 to 2 level tablespoons sugar; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 egg; 1/2 cups milk or water; 2 to 3 tablespoons melted butter; mix and bake as One-Egg Muffins.

Graham batter should always be quite stiff to insure light and moist muffins.

To get 88 other recipes as good as these, send us the certificate packed in every 25-cent tin of K. C. Baking Powder, and we will send you "The Cook's Book" by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill. Handsomely illustrated. Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago.

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

—By—MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON. Letters may be addressed to MRS. THOMPSON in care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) There is a boy in high school whom I like very much, but my parents object to his calling upon me. Would it be proper for me to meet at his sister-in-law's?

(2) I do not indulge in kissing games at parties. Do boys and girls who do not?

(3) Do you think a party of boys and girls about fifteen to sixteen years old too young to go on a straw ride? (4) When a girl is kissed against her will, what should she do?

(5) Would it be all right to give a boy a skating party for a few boys and girls?

(6) When walking to a pond should I pond should I carry the girl's skates?

(7) Should a boy and girl go out together?

(8) Should a girl of fifteen accept a birthday present of a box of candy from a boy of sixteen?

(9) Should a boy and girl, sixteen years of age, go to the theater?

PEG O' MY HEART.

(1) It would not be proper for your parents object to him.

(2) Children play kissing games without the matter of respect entering into the question. The right kind of a boy would not respect a high school girl who indulged in such games.

(3) They should have the straw ride in the day time.

(4) She should make it clear to the boy that he does so again he must lose the privilege of calling.

(5) Yes. (6) He should. (7) No. In the day time. (8) Yes. (9) No.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am deeply in love with a woman and she says she loves me and would marry me, but her people tell her it is wrong and against their religion to marry as long as her first husband is living, although she is divorced from her first husband and has been for two years. Do you think it would be wrong for her to marry? She is a young woman and has to work hard for a living and is willing to marry and make her living for her. She is thirty years old and I am thirty-eight. Do you think her marrying again would be a sin?

Personally I do not think it would be wrong for her to marry again. We are giving our lives to make life as happy and useful as we can and if you and your loved one each other it will be to the advantage of both to marry. Her first marriage was a mistake, which should teach her not to marry again unless she and the man are congenial and conditions are favorable for marriage; but the old mistake should not blunt her life and prevent her from reaching the happiness she was denied before.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) What will take blue pencil marks out of white linen goods?

(2) What is the style of fixing hair now?

(3) They will wash out after several washings. Usually they disappear the first time, but if they do not there is nothing that will remove them.

(4) The style is to wear it straight back from the forehead, down over the ears and in a psyche at the back of the neck. This way is not becoming to many people.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl seventeen years of age and I am in love with a boy for about a month. He seems to care a great deal for me. At different times I have seen him while with other boys. Afterward he would treat me coolly and I treated him the same. He doesn't get him at dances and I quite often I see him at dances and I don't want to lose this boy's friendship. Do you think him jealous? THANK YOU.

He has mentioned nothing that he has probably found me to be jealous. He likes her better than he does you. Speak to him in a friendly way, but do nothing that would give him reason to think you are still interested in him.

Letters may be addressed to Wm. A. BRADY, M. D., in care of the Gazette.

STREPTOCOCCICOSIS

The common garden variety of streptococcus is a hard term to pronounce and a harder one to get rid of. Yet we must learn how to accomplish both feats, especially if we happen to have a case of rheumatism concealed somewhere about our person. For the still more stammerous term which we have used as the title of this conversation, at the grave risk of our reputation for simplicity, we are indebted to Dr. H. L. Ulrich of Minnesota, a middle western state science issues which makes the profession of medicine as exact a science as any other profession today.

Dr. Ulrich has been conducting an exhaustive study of the streptococcus and its relation with such focal or secondary conditions as rheumatism, gastric or duodenal ulcer, and certain valvular heart troubles, as well as secondary anemia. A blind dental abscess is a minute collection of pus at the apex or root, perhaps not even diagnosed by the dentist, but detected by X-ray photographs of the jaw. Ulrich found over 85 per cent of all artificially devitalized teeth had apical abscesses, and the total proportion of abscesses on 1,350 dead teeth, including those found on pulpless teeth due to decay (cavity) or accident or fillings was 83 per cent.

The busy little microbe in the majority of these cases—the microbe causing the abscess—is the streptococcus. A blind dental abscess is the simplest of trouble too—is the simplest streptococcus. Several other types join in the festivities, but S. v. appears primarily. And so Dr. Ulrich infers upon humanity this new word, streptococciosis, which is just as much entitled to a place in the medical lexicon as is tuberculosis or diphtheria.

Some dentists declare that these abscesses are caused by improper frequency of abscesses about the teeth of persons who do not patronize the bargain dentists who would seem that this charge is a little too severe.

Whatever the primary cause of the abscess this much is established: A patient with any of the troubles above listed as focal or secondary abscesses should bear in mind the possible influence of a blind dental abscess, and if necessary have X-ray photographs of the jaw taken to exclude such a factor.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Autoism and Cancer.—Can you inform me whether the new treatment for cancer (called autoism, I think) is proving efficacious?

Answer—It is not helping many cases; it is or has apparently aggravated some cases, and to date there is no proof that it has ever cured a single case or organic cancer.

Furnace Hygiene.—Is there any hygienic objection to a furnace plant in which the air intake is from the cellar?

Answer—Yes. The intake should be from outside air.

Agreeable Hand Lotion.—Mrs. F. S. F. asks: Please tell me how to make an agreeable salve with mutton tallow, for chapped hands, rough skin, and the like.

Answer—Here is a better one, without tallow:

Glycerin.....1 ounce
Bay Rum.....1 ounce
True Oil of Rose.....3 drops

JENNINGS IS AFTER PENNANT IN AMERICAN WITH HIS OLD CREW

Will Stand Pat on Line-Up Which Stirred Things Up After Bad Start Last Year.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Detroit, Mich., March 1.—Manager Jennings of the Tigers expects to win the 1916 American league pennant. He is going to stand pat on his line-up, which grabbed an even hundred victories for him, but succeeded in finishing only second best. This line-up, he believes, will be stronger than it was a year ago.

The team that wins ninety games this year, Jennings says, will win the pennant. On the eve of his team's departure for Waukegan, Ill., Jennings let the Detroit fans in on some of his plans for the year. Most important of his announcements was the statement that he would again rely on his veteran line-up.

Local baseball critics believe that the Tiger attack will be stronger this year than last, when it was one of the finest in baseball. Old Sam Crawford has only an average of .290 to beat, and he has had a great winter. Sam recently declared he would be only ten pounds overweight when he reported at Waukegan.

Cobb also had a good winter and expects to repeat all his 1915 stuff and put over some new ones as well. Veach, who came into his own only last year, is expected to take a place with the stars of the game as a result of his work last season. These three men will plug up the outfield so tight that no rookie will have a chance of a chance to break in, Jennings believes.

Burns, Young, Bush and Vitt are all slated for another season as cogs of the infield machine. Last year Burns held down the first base job under the stars of the game as a result of appendicitis. He will start this season with that operation a year old and is hoping to regain his old speed.

From Young at second and Donnie Bush at short, Jennings doesn't add anything more than these men showed last year unless it is a little heavier stick work. Oscar Vitt, the third sacker who flashed into stardom in 1915, has put on ten pounds, a valuable lot for him, and expects to make his big season.

Marty Kavanaugh, best pinch hitter in the league last year, and Henry Heilmann, 1915 sensation on the Pacific coast, will be headlines in the infield reserve crew.

The catching staff will again have Oscar Stanage as the anchor man, with McKee and Baker as aides. There is a possibility too that Archie Yelke, a recruit, will make the grade this year. He is brought back for a second time after a summer of seasoning in Ottawa, where he helped to win a pennant. If the worst comes to worst, the veteran Billy Sullivan, best in the league in his younger days and the White Sox, may don the mask and windup in one of an even hundred games for Minneapolis last year, showing as good form as any backstopper in the association.

Incidentally, the Tigers are relying a lot upon Sullivan this year. Billy has a reputation as being a wonder at developing pitchers. In fact, that's

YEP! GHARRITY IS NAMED IN DESPATCH

Beloit Catcher Listed Among Those at Training Camp With the Washington American Club.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Charlottesville, Va., March 1.—Charlottesville today greeted the advance guard of the Washington American league baseball team, consisting of eight pitchers, a catcher, a trainer and two coaches.

Head Coach Jack Ryan, Comedian Coach Nick Altrock and Trainer Mike Martin led the delegation from Washington which took possession of a University of Virginia fraternity house and prepared for spring training work. Doc Ayres, Harry Zetter and Jack Bentley were the more-or-less regular pitchers. They, in turn, saw to the safety of C. Humphreys, who last year won the Norfolk team of the Virginia league.

Gallia, George Dumont, "Tod" Sloan of Linden, Tenn., and Jim Shaw. Ray Morgan, who has held down the position of the Nationals, came with the advance guard in a little extra preparation for the season.

The players were confident of good weather. They are braving what for baseball teams in spring is almost the Arctic circle, but they have assurance that if they are interrupted by snow, as they have been in years past, they can practice in the "cave" of the university.

Manager Griffiths, with Walter Johnson, the catchers who waited for the second season, Judge, first baseman; George McBride, shortstop; and captain; Jim Poxa, outfielder; Clyde Miller, who has been training at Hot Springs, Ark.; Carl Sawyer, second baseman; Eddie Foster, third baseman; Howard Shanks, utility; Henri Rondeau, outfielder; Ed Gharrity, cub catcher; Horace Milan, outfielder, brother of Clyde; Dan Moeller, outfielder; Charles Jamieson, outfielder; and Turner Barber, outfielder, and the other scattering members of the team, will arrive here March 10.

Mike Gibbons, probably middleweight world title holder, has sold his entire time for one year. The agreement is a possible one, as Mike gets $30,000 and agrees to enter into no bouts for one year, except those approved by the Capital City Athletic club, with which he made the contract during the year with fighters of his class, chosen by the club. In case he is knocked out or decisively beaten, the contract is automatically nullified.

RESULTS OF BOXING BOUTS SCHEDULED LAST NIGHT

Columbus, Ohio—Matt Wells and Johnny Griffiths fought a good draw in twelve rounds.

BAUMAN'S COLTS LOSE TO MILLER REGULARS

Miller's Regular Team Gets Best of Colts in Match Game Last Night.

—K. C. League Standing.

After losing the first event, Miller's Regulars came back in the next two games to defeat the Colts by nearly one hundred pins. Dickerson, Hammond and Yeomans rolled in the two hundred class and the former had the high score with 226 pins.

Team No. 1 from the Elk's lodge won from team No. 2 last night by about four hundred pins. The second squad had only four men, which was the reason for their defeat.

Two Moose teams rolled in a game last night and the struggle resulted in a victory for Lyke's team over Schnider's five.

K. C. Lodge. The Calverts had the shade on the Columbus team last night in the K. C. League and won from them by about seventy-five pins. The other game the Balboas won from the Magellans. In this league at present the Balboas stand at the head with seven victories and no defeats. The standing of the eight teams of the league is given below. Tonight the Hemphills will roll the Cortes and the Lafayette will go against the DeLeons. The Monterey will roll the Perlees and the Balboas.

FEDERAL GAME LAW WILL BE ENFORCED

False Report That Spring Shooting Will Be Allowed in Certain Districts.

A misleading statement has recently become current in newspapers of the Mississippi Valley and elsewhere, to the effect that the Department of Agriculture has suspended the enforcement of the federal regulations under the migratory bird law and by this means has enabled sportsmen to shoot wild fowl the coming spring.

Under the federal regulations as they now stand, the season on all migratory wild fowl is closed until next autumn throughout the United States. Federal inspectors and wardens are required, and others interested in the protection of wild fowl are requested to report to the Department of Agriculture all cases of violations of the regulations, in order that proper action may be taken.

The Department of Agriculture has now power to suspend the law or to pardon violations of the regulations. Doubtless the erroneous impression, on which the newspaper statements are based, has grown out of the pendency of litigation involving the constitutionality of the act of congress approved March 4, 1913, under which the regulations were promulgated. The lower federal courts are now engaged in the task of deciding the validity of the statute and the issue was carried to the supreme court of the United States. The case was argued in the supreme court in October, 1915, but has not been decided. Pending the lower court decisions, congress appropriated money for the purpose of continuing the enforcement of the law. The Department of Agriculture is bound to report to the department of justice violations of the regulations if the supreme court should declare the law unconstitutional. All persons should, therefore, be warned of the danger they incur from failure to abide by the regulations.

Although Benny Leonard has agreed on terms to box Freddy Welsh in a fight likely that the bout will go through, as Welsh is slated to face Ad Wolgast in Milwaukee March 6.

Prince Albert tobacco has made three men smoke pipes where one smoked before!

PRINCE ALBERT
the national joy smoke

LAY fire to a jimmy pipe jammed-chock-full of Prince Albert tobacco, or roll up a makin's cigarette—if you're digging after reasons why P. A. has revolutionized the pipe and "rolling" game; why P. A. has trebled the number of pipe smokers in six years; why Prince Albert is today smoked in every civilized nation on the globe!

Give P. A. the third-degree-test-out! Drill like sixty into that enticing flavor, that fragrance, that long-burning coolness. Your confidence never will be abused! The patented process makes all that possible—and frees the tobacco from bite and parch!

Prince Albert can be purchased everywhere tobacco is sold in tippy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidor, and in that classy pound crystal-glass humidor with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such bang-up condition!

Men who have stowed away gentle old pipes for years have brought them back to the tune of Prince Albert! It will set free any-pipe-shy-tongue!

P. A. will prove out 100 per cent. any hour of the twenty-four! It will give any man all the pipe-happiness he ever did yearn for!

Rolled in a makin's cigarette, Prince Albert is so refreshing and so delightful, it gives you a brand-new idea of how mighty fine a real makin's cigarette can be! It's as satisfying to your taste as the prettiest thoughts of smoke-happiness you ever uncorked!

For Prince Albert has won its way on its merits. Won-over men of all tastes—it's so universal in its popularity; so good, and friendly, and satisfying! It will win you quick as a flash! R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY, Winston-Salem, N. C.

MARCH FURNITURE SALE

Ashcraft's Annual March Sale OF FINE FURNITURE

From Forest to Mill to Factory to Ashcraft's

Today, Wednesday, March 1st, the Furniture Sale of all furniture sales began. This will be the most important sale of the kind we have ever held—not alone because of the values offered in the face of a rapidly rising market but because of the exceptional beauty and diversity of styles shown. In examining the very first shipments unpacked a few days ago, we realized that this was to be, indeed, an extraordinary sale, and every succeeding shipment that has reached us to date has served to increase our enthusiasm. Our stocks are now complete and EVERY PIECE IS REDUCED.

Those who have kept pace with the advanced ideas in furnishing the house beautiful, will be delighted to see them embodied here—not merely in a limited way, but in a splendid assortment of suites and separate pieces, for every room in the modern home—and all at surprisingly low prices.

Furniture went up twice during the last five months. We are told to expect another advance in March.

All agree that this advance is coming—though the many give as many different reasons. Some say that more people are buying furniture now than for many years, young married couples, for instance, who have put it off for a year or so, other families who bought automobiles and have put off refurnishing their home for some time. Others say, and possibly even more to the point, that the war conditions actually make advances necessary, the scarcity of woodstains, the great demand for hard woods for gun stocks.

Whatever is the reason, the results are here and they show no more clearly than in the difference in the prices we paid for the fine furniture in this great March Furniture Sale and the prices being quoted today by these self-same manufacturers.

Which brings us to the important point—

In the Face of Advances and Coming Advances This Furniture is Priced on the Basis we Paid for it Months Ago When we Laid Our Plans for the March Sale—and Every Piece of Furniture in Our Entire Stock is Reduced.

Every single stick of this furniture comes from manufacturers of the very highest class—artisans of the furniture craft who know so well how to construct furniture to last a lifetime, after period designs—who know how to adapt these designs to modern needs, preserving all the character and beauty of the originals, thus developing a new furniture art in America dedicated to a truly useful purpose.

BEAUTIFUL EXAMPLES OF PERIOD FURNITURE

Practical and Artistic Life-Time Furniture for Dining Room, Living Room, Bed Room, Hall, etc.
